Regal Crest Enterprises. Paperback. Book Condition: New. Paperback. 208 pages. Hatred . . . like love . . . knows no boundaries. How much impact can one person have on a life When sixty-five-old Callie Owen returns to her rural childhood home in Eastern Tennessee to attend the funeral of a woman she has not seen in twenty years, she is forced to face the fears, heartache, and turbulent events that scarred both her body and her mind. Drawing strength from Jean, her partner of thirty years, and from their two grown children, Callie stays in the valley longer than she had anticipated and relives the years that changed her life forever. In 1949, Japanese war bride Reiko Sanders came to Frost Valley, Tennessee with her soldier husband and infant son. Callie Owen was an inquisitive ten year old whose curiosity about the stranger drove her to disobey her father for just one peek at the woman who had become the subject of so much speculation. Despite Callies fears, she soon finds that the exotic looking woman is kind and caring, and the two forge a tentative, but secret friendship. When Callie and her five brothers and sisters were left orphaned, Reiko provided emotional support to Callie. The bond between them continued to grow stronger until Callie left Frost Valley as a teenager, emotionally and physically scarred, vowing never to return and never to forgive. It is not until Callie goes home that she allows herself to remember how Reiko influenced her life. Once and for all, can she face the terrible events of her past Or will they come back to destroy all that she loves This item ships from multiple locations. Your book may arrive from Roseburg,OR, La Vergne,TN. Paperback.
